

With over 40 years of successful entrepreneurial business experience, community leadership, and public service, I hope to bring my knowledge and insight to the City Council. As a Founder and CEO of Norcross-based Paulson-Cheek Mechanical, I have a unique perspective as a Norcross business owner in addition to being a Norcross resident. Paulson-Cheek Mechanical recently celebrated its 25th year and proudly serves contractors, owners, and developers across the entire southeast.

Being involved in my city is of utmost importance to me. In my 66 years as an Atlanta resident, I have held various volunteer leadership positions such as HOA President in Stone Mountain and Norcross, student mentor at Georgia Tech, youth group, and Sunday School teacher at my church, coach for girl's and boy's youth basketball and soccer, and current Vice Chair of Planning and Zoning for the City of Norcross.

My life experiences, combined with a love and passion for Norcross, have helped give me the ability to understand our city's needs better, exemplify servant leadership, and facilitate growth.
